

Research Centre on Migration (Ponza)

The Research Centre is located on the amazing Ponza island, on the west side of the Italian coast and it hosts the station for migratory bird banding activities during the spring season.

The Centre is currently implementing the 'Small Islands' project (Piccole Isole) and it also collaborates with:

the Veterinary Medicine University of Vienna (Austria),

the University of Ferrara (Italy),

the Max Planck Institute for Ornithology in Germany and the Tuscia University Ecologic and Biologic Sciences Department.

The project will start on the 26th of March and end on the 26nd of May 2022!

The ringing activities contribute to the research on ecophysiology and phenology of migratory birds. The collected data are useful both for monitoring the conditions of birds' populations in Europe as well as to estimate the impacts of land use and climate changes on birds' trends and status.

To reserve your volunteering period or to organize a visit at our centre contact us at the following address:

massimiliano.cardinale@slu.se

STAZIONE
ORNITOLOGICA PONZESE

Your support
may make the difference!

With a simple donation you could contribute at the maintenance and improvement of our research activities:

C.F. 90028680602

Visit our website for more information:

www.inanellamentoponza.it